

SYNOPSIS

DRY RED WINE

One night, after sign the contract that would take him to Stuttgart, where he would do his doctorate, a chemistry teacher buys a Portuguese wine to celebrate with his girlfriend, Gabriela, their trip to Germany. While waiting for the arrival of Gabriela, he begins to feed conflicting ideas about going or not to Europe. Accepting the scholarship will mean giving up his great dream of being a pianist, for which he fought desperately against everything and against everyone, especially against his family. He had become a pianist of some success, but not enough to convince him to leave the promising profession of chemist and devote himself to the piano. This is the conflict that is stirring up. He knows that tonight's decision has to be definitive. To be a chemist, a social demand, or to be a pianist, a risk, but that will mean his freedom.
